

RED ARMY CARRIES WAR TO GERMAN SOIL

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie

HITLER'S ROBOT BOMB, which is pouring so much death and destruction into London, presents a major problem whose solution seems to depend on the speed with which the Western Allies are able to develop their drive towards Paris and Berlin.

There are two apparent ways in which this devilish weapon can be eliminated. One is to destroy the launching platforms—and intensive bombing thus far has failed to turn this trick. The other is to compel the Germans to retreat from the Pas De Calais coast opposite England so far that they will be outside the effective radius of the robot, which is about 150 miles.

That brings us back to the swift-developing battle of France. When the Allies start to sweep east and northeast from Normandy, they will flank the Nazi coastal forces that are operating the flying bombs. This will be calculated to cause the Hitlerites to withdraw. Indeed it won't be surprising to see the Germans heading for their inner defenses behind the "Magenot" and Siegfried lines before long, the way their fighting machine is cracking up.

Elimination of the robot bomb thus becomes one of the prime reasons for speed in the Allied offensive—a speed likely to accelerate rapidly now that we have broken out of the Normandy peninsula. This fresh bombardment of civilian London can't be brushed aside lightly with the truism that "the British can take it."

Certainly the British can take it, and the Hitlerites can't help their cause by such tactics. Actually Hitler's new weapon is only making it certain that he and his gang will pay after the war. However, it would be foolish not to recognize the terrible strain which England is enduring.

About a million people, largely women and children, have been evacuated from the capital already. Prime Minister Churchill told us Wednesday that these bombs had killed 4,735 folk and more or less seriously injured 14,000 more. About 17,000 houses have been totally destroyed and some 800,000 damaged. It must be remembered that London presents the biggest target of its kind in the world for these uncontrolled explosives. One doesn't like to contemplate the effect on this great city if the deluge continues.

Of course, by the time this robot is eliminated the Nazis may be ready to unleash another secret weapon even more terrible. Bigger bombs are said to be in preparation. However, while monster bombs can be built at all right, their launching presents technical difficulties which tax the ingenuity of the world's best scientific brains. The hope is that the Nazis won't have time to perfect a new weapon before they have to yell quits.

Only 85 At Noon Today: Other Ohio Cities Have Higher Marks Friday

With temperatures reaching 94 in Salem yesterday and a high of 85 registered at noon today, Salemites can well appreciate the sufferings of other fellow Ohioans who stood even higher marks yesterday.

Sweating Ohioans had reason to cheer as the Weather Bureau forecast a break in the heat wave that has gripped the state all week. "Fair and cooler tonight and Sunday," the Weather Bureau predicted.

Forecasters said the highest temperature in the central part of the state tomorrow probably would be somewhere between 80 and 85—and that practically amounts to a cold wave in comparison with the 85s and 96s which have been racked up this week.

Light showers in Toledo, Cleveland, Lima, Cincinnati and many other points late yesterday brought the mercury down several points, but even so Columbus registered a 95, Cleveland 96, Toledo 93 and Cincinnati and Findlay each 92.

FINE TRUCK DRIVER IN TRIPLE CRASH

A truck was burned, two cars badly damaged and the truck driver fined $25 and costs for unsafe operation as a result of an accident on Route 14, a half mile west of Unity, yesterday afternoon.

Although the truck driver, Vernon Mulvane of Aliquippa, Pa., received a minor laceration of the left arm, no serious injuries were suffered by the three persons involved.

State patrolmen, who investigated the accident, said Mulvane's truck was traveling east on Route 14 and sideswiped a car parked on the opposite side of the road. The car, owned by Elmer Phillips of Pittsburgh, Pa., was damaged on the side.

After striking Phillips' car, Mulvane's truck went on down the road and rammed a car driven by Wilmer Simion of East Palestine and then caught fire and burned.

New Waterford firemen extinguished the blaze, but not before the truck had been burned beyond repair.

Mulvane was arrested on a charge of unsafe operation and fined by Mayor Walter A. Hunston of East Palestine.

U. S. BOMBERS ATTACK NAZI OIL STATIONS

German Raiders Also Hit Aircraft Plant: Rumania Blasted Friday

LONDON, Aug. 5.—More than 1,100 Liberators and Flying Fortress thunders roared into Germany today, attacking numerous targets in Dollbergen, Hannover and Brunswick, and striking at German oil refineries and aircraft industry.

Another great day of Allied aerial assault in excellent weather appeared in progress against Hitler's Europe.

Yesterday Italy-based Lightnings of the U. S. 15th air force, escorted by Mustangs, shot up communications in Rumania and landed on Soviet bases, an Eastern U. S. air force announcement broadcast by Moscow said.

The oil refinery at Dollbergen, an aircraft factory at Madgeburg, and airfields at Hannover, Langerhagen and Halberstadt were hit. Other targets in the Hannover and Madgeburg areas were unidentified.

Strong Fighter Escort
A strong force of Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Lightnings of the U. S. Eighth air force escorted the heavyweights.

Polkstone observers reported great rumblings of bombs across the channel today, indicating more attacks on the Pas De Calais coast of France, site of robot launchings.

The aerial activity began with a devastating moonlight attack by Ninth air force Marauders on ammunition and fuel dumps in De Silie forest, 30 miles east of Laval that left the depots swarming in flames.

In the smash against Germany and France yesterday the Allies flew 4,000 sorties, downed 50 enemy planes in the air and destroyed a number on the ground. Allied losses were 19 bombers and 22 fighters.

Escorted heavy bombers struck yesterday at targets throughout France and Germany. They smashed airfields at Lille and Achiet; the railway bridge at Etaples; a coastal battery in the Pas-De-Calais, and oil depots at Pauillac and Bee D'Ambres near Bordeaux.

Medium bombers cascaded explosives on railway yards at Montfort and Beauvais, a railway embankment at Pernon, and a concentration of troops south of Annay. Light bombers blew up an ammunition train near Bordeaux and hit rail targets.

Also under attack were an oil dump at Angers, Seine Barges, the Amiens airfield, and locomotives and motor transport in northern France. Mosquito bombers destroyed five aircraft over Normandy during the night.

JUST LIKE A BALL GAME, RINGLING'S COMMENT ON SHOW

(By Associated Press)
AKRON, Aug. 5—President Robert Ringling of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus has a "fifth inning" problem, now that "the greatest show on earth" is without its canvas canopy.

The circus showed for the first time yesterday without the "big top," lost July 6 in the Hartford, Conn., fire fatal to 167 persons.

"Now that we are under the blue heavens, we seem to be comparable to baseball clubs," said Ringling after the initial appearance in Akron's rubber bowl.

Major league ball clubs issue rain checks after four and one-half innings if the home team is trailing. If the host club is ahead, it's a complete game.

"We'll go along with that set-up," said Ringling. "We have 22 displays. If we're rained out before half are completed, I believe it should call for a rain check."

Silk-hatted Fred Bradna, 72-year-old ringmaster, placed his personal seal of approval on performances without the "big top."

"Impressive in the day time and magnificent under artificial lights," declared the picturesque maestro. "The circus attracted approximately 9,000 to Akron's stadium last night and about 2,000 yesterday."

George W. Smith, circus general manager, said plans called for a return to "the big top" next season.

"Ill Advised Promises" Almost Broke Morale Of Burma Yanks

(By Associated Press)
LT. GEN. JOSEPH W. STILLWELL'S HEADQUARTERS IN INDIA, Aug. 5.—A combination of ill advised promises and faulty hospital procedure caused an "almost complete breakdown in morale" in one of the most famous American fighting units, Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's marauders, during the siege of Myitkyna, it was announced officially today.

The incident occurred near the end of May, when the American position at the Japanese-held North Burma base admittedly was precarious. Capture of the town was announced yesterday.

An official inquiry by the inspector general's office disclosed that several hundred Marauders were removed from temporary duty while still convalescent, and were returned to active duty. The seriousness of the situation at Myitkyna necessitated "scraping the bottom of the barrel" for manpower, the report said.

However, removal of the convalescent soldiers to the battle area was the result of a misunderstanding. The report attaches no blame either to medical officers or combat leaders for deliberately ordering unfit men into line.

For security reasons in connection with the Myitkyna operation the report was withheld until now. Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell ordered the investigation. He wept openly when he learned his order that as many able-bodied men as possible be thrown into action had been misinterpreted.

The Marauders are all volunteers. Some saw service in the Solomon Islands and elsewhere in the South Seas. They were recruited as a special unit.

The report said some of them believed as a result of "ill-advised promises" that they were ferried for one spectacular and difficult mission in Burma and that they, after they would be disbanded and sent home.

The report says that by June 1 the Marauders had been in operation about three months and were malaria-ridden, exhausted, and suffering from malnutrition.

47 DIE IN TRAIN WRECK IN GEORGIA

(By Associated Press)
STOCKTON, Ga., Aug. 5.—A west-bound Atlantic Coast Line passenger train crashed into a locomotive of a by-passed freight on a siding near her early today, killing at least 47 persons, mostly Negro railway laborers going home for the weekend to Alabama.

H. L. Tomlinson, station agent for the railroad, said at least 47 bodies had been found. Nearly all the dead, he said, were Negroes, members of a work gang which had been at Doctortown, Ga. Tomlinson said more bodies were in the wreckage, but he could not estimate the number. An undetermined number were injured.

Yanks Near Nantes; Villers-Bocage Falls As Germans Retreat

(By Associated Press)
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 5.—American troops swarmed over half of the Breton peninsula today, thrusting nearly to the port of Nantes at its base and advancing to within 85 miles of Brest at its tip.

To the north in Normandy German troops were in a general withdrawal from the whole Odon-Orne valley southwest of Caen. The thrust by British and Canadian troops there was bringing closer a possible major German retreat to the Seine river 70 miles to the east and the opening of the way to Paris.

Cutting up 50 square miles of territory in a five-mile retreat, the Germans below the Canadian sector were declared in a front dispatch to be moving their forces back and forth in great confusion. A Canadian officer at the front said, "The enemy is now extremely windy. He is trying desperately to provide some kind of a bolt hole for himself. These are moves of desperation."

After six days of battling, British troops knocked loose Villers-Bocage, the keystone of the German defenses west of the Orne river, and took at least 15 towns and villages. Capture 5 Strongpoints

Advancing on an eight-mile front, the Tommies swarmed into evacuated Villers-Bocage and captured Noyers, Esquay, Evrecy and Hills 112 and 113—all points the Germans had fought bitterly for weeks to hold.

The fall of Villers-Bocage left the Nazis with the choice of pulling out or running the risk of having their forces trapped in a V-shaped wedge between the Odon and Orne rivers extending from Evrecy northward toward Caen.

The Supreme headquarters communiqué confirmed that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's unslacking American tank-infantry force driving west on the Breton peninsula had reached Loudeac, 85 miles from the great port of Brest at the peninsula's end.

(The Germans told of a penetration to Pontivy, 10 miles farther.) The American columns driving south of Rennes on two roughly parallel roads to Nantes reached Derval and Chateau Briant, 30 and 33 miles above Nantes respectively.

SHOWDOWN IN STRIKE NEAR

State Guard Mobilized As Philadelphia Workers Remain Defiant

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Three regiments of the Pennsylvania State guard, fully armed, were mobilized today as 6,000 Philadelphia transit strikers again defied U. S. army orders to end a five-day work stoppage marked by racial disorders and threats of violence against returning workers.

A high source said the guard units would be used "only to maintain order" in connection with the Army's efforts to restore bus, trolley, subway and subway-elevated service in the nation's second largest city.

The source, who asked not to be quoted directly, said the Army had told him that "troops brought here will be used only to operate the Philadelphia Transportation Company rolling stock." He did not say whether any troops already had arrived.

Meanwhile a showdown appeared imminent between the strikers and the Army, which seized the lines Thursday night by order of President Roosevelt. Arrests were indicated.

The Philadelphia army public relations section said it could not comment on the mobilization, which affected units stationed as far away as Altoona, 234 miles west of here.

SOVIET UNITS ENTER EAST PRUSSIA AREA

Clash With Enemy in Sudauen District; Warsaw Battle Rages On

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Russians have carried the ground war to German soil for the first time since the conflict started by penetrating the northeastern part of East Prussia. Berlin reports indicated today, and Moscow dispatches said "fierce" are raging in East Prussian towns which now are objectives of Red army infantry attacks.

The German high command communiqué said there was fighting in the "Sudauen-Schaken district." Sudauen is the old name for the eastern part of East Prussia between the rivers Inster and Angerapp and the Masurian lakes.

While the battle for Warsaw, the south ragged inside and out of the old Polish capital, the Red army flung strong cavalry forces across two water barriers in a smashing drive to within 30 miles of Krakow, the last big city stronghold of the Germans barring invasion of German Silesia.

A transoceanic broadcast from Berlin said "heavy fighting is going on against Soviet formations which have broken through on the East Prussian border north of Wirballen (Virballis)."

Area Shelled Heavily
Virballis is a frontier post about a mile from the East Prussian frontier. The village itself is two or three miles from the station on the main railway between Kaunas, former capital of Lithuania, and Konigsberg, largest city of East Prussia.

It is in this area that the Russians have been reported shelling East Prussian territory for several days.

"Smoke floats over German lands and we can smell things burning," said a Pravda eyewitness report published in Moscow which told of burning East Prussian towns.

Moscow dispatches said Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's troops pushing upon East Prussia met bitter resistance in the vicinity of Eydtkuhnen, on the Lithuanian border. Further north along the Nieman river, a spearhead struck straight into the flank of the remaining German Baltic front, seized Skalau, 48 miles east of Tilsit, and overran 200 towns and villages.

Scraping for reserves, the Nazi high command brought up troops which had been guarding rail dumps in Tilsit and Konigsberg and threw them into the battle, the Russians said, while heavy forces of Red planes strafed major roads in East Prussia leading to the front.

COMEBACK OF THE STATES

The Republican governors know that their projected comeback of the states cannot be accomplished by resolution.

The states were elbowed aside because of many things, not least of which was their own bad habit of toadying to Washington. That was what Washington wanted.

Then when they let the central government get virtually complete possession of the power of the purse, it was only a matter of time until the states became mere dependencies, unless something was done about it.

The Republican governors, spark-plugged by Gov. Dewey and encouraged by Gov. Bricker's demonstration that resentment of federal bureaucratic encroachment is a real talking point with the ordinary people of the country, say they will do something about it. That remains to be seen.

They will do something about it only if they honestly feel like doing something and are willing to stick together. If they intend to use states' rights only as a talking point during a national campaign, that would be a shameful thing. Somehow, however, Gov. Dewey has conveyed the impression that if he were the chief executive of the federal government, he would make the governors and the states take a new lease on life. He stands for a government of strong component parts. The states fit into his political plans as logically as pieces in a puzzle, and that probably is why he is going to all the trouble to talk about states' rights and the necessity of marking the boundaries between states and federal functions. He apparently intends to do something about it if elected to the presidency.

CASUALTIES ARE NEVER LIGHT

Up and down the quiet streets of this country and along the country roads, the homes of America are paying the price of D-day in Europe. Casualty lists are catching up at last to the grim events which began early last June in Normandy. They are long and growing longer.

Casualties are never light. The war and navy departments should never use the expression, "News-papers and radio should shun it." If the Germans could be driven out of France with the loss of only one life, that still would be the supreme loss for the mother, wife or sweetheart who had to bear the grief of shattered hopes.

The people were warned that the price would be heavy; they knew it. The men who landed on the beaches knew what a new front was going to mean; they had plenty of time to think about the danger they faced. They had the example of the air men who had been fighting the enemy for many months. They had the example of their own troops in Italy, Sicily and North Africa. They had the example of Americans in the war against Japan. They—all of us—knew victory could not be won cheaply.

But until the cost of war strikes home, it can only be estimated, not understood. That is happening now, day by day . . . the secretary of war regrets to announce . . . he died heroically . . . between the crosses row on row . . . America is not fighting with money and material now, but with thousands of lives. The survivors who pay in sorrow for the sacrifice made by the dead deserve the sympathy of the nation. They alone are qualified to speak of the cost of the war, because they are bearing the ultimate cost. The money can be repaid and the materials replaced, but the lives are gone forever.

STORM SIGNALS IN PHILADELPHIA

Hitler and his last-ditch Nazis will take hope from the transportation tie-up and accompanying riots in Philadelphia—and some of the hope they take will be legitimate.

The things that have happened in that traditionally sedate city are storm signals. When transportation workers walk out on an unauthorized strike over so trivial a provocation as the upgrading of Negro workers, when a great city is paralyzed and its population terrorized by rumbling threats of race riots; when civil disorder grows so serious that appeals must be taken to the chief executive for military action—Hitler has a right to hope.

Germany and Japan have one last chance in the war. The Allies may fall to fighting one another, or in the United States, which is the key to their war effort, civilian discipline may crumble. Naturally, all Americans can be sure these things won't happen, because they are confident of their national strength. The Germans and Japanese, having no confidence, may be expected to jump at what looks like proof that they have sized up the situation correctly and the United States is coming apart at the seams. We cannot condemn them for reaching that conclusion from the circumstantial evidence. If we heard that Hamburg was paralyzed by insurrection and riot at this stage in the war, it would be clinching evidence that Germany was about to collapse from within.

WHO CAN BLAME US?

The war department, answering criticisms of the way it handles Italian prisoners of war, explains that Italian service units composed of Italian prisoners who volunteer are given certain privileges not granted German prisoners and Italian Fascist prisoners. Among these privileges have been sight-seeing trips to nearby points of interest.

In the event the war department does not understand why such things make the citizens of the United States angry, it might help to realize that at a time when most families can't get enough gas to drive outside their own towns and the great national pastime of visiting points of interest is at a standstill, there's no comfort in knowing that men who lately were shooting at American boys can look forward to any kind of touring whatever—particularly at public expense. It isn't the Italians who are making the public critical, but the idea that any prisoner of war should get anything more than the Geneva convention for treatment of prisoners specifies.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, August 6.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a contradictory one, with promise of much activity and uprooting of a devastating nature as well as of a stabilizing and enduring quality. The malefic force may be aimed at disrupting and removing old and no longer constructive conditions in order that new projects may be built upon firm and enduring foundations. Accidents or injury should be guarded against and strife set aside in order to reap sound returns for worthy effort and skill.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of difficulties and sudden reversals, precedent to rebuilding firm and enduring foundations upon unstable and unproductive conditions or circumstances. Grasping the situation with aggressive but well-considered efforts and ingenuity should result in surprising denouement, but be prepared for tests, disappointments or accidents.

A child born on this day may have much ingenuity and creative ability, with many sterling qualities making for success after trials and reversals.

For Monday, August 7.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a very progressive and expansive state of affairs, with sudden opportunities to be grasped with swift and decisive operations in order to reap rich and astonishing rewards, after many trials and peculiar entanglements. Be careful of undercurrent assaults and shun erratic impulses. The domestic or affectional scene also may have strange complications unless safeguarded.

Those whose birthday it is may have a surprising opening for putting over new and original projects or strange though clever ideas or innovations. This must be grasped quickly and with sound sense and reason and not erratic or emotional irregularities or impulses. Decide with care and work with bold strokes and ingenuity. In all relations refrain from strife, confusion and dangerous intrigues or entanglements. Domestic and affectional affairs also may need consideration.

A child born on this day may have much talent and skill of unusual scope and ingenuity.

only improvement on the methods he used is the injection of a local anesthetic—procaine—into the injured ligaments.

In my youth during my novitiate in medicine it was a common saying that a sprain was worse than a fracture. The basis of this was that a sprain kept the victim in bed longer than a fracture, and the limping lasted longer.

It didn't seem to make sense that a sprain, which is just a stretching and possibly tearing of the ligaments around the ankle, could be worse than a fracture which is a break in the bone, but such sayings as quoted above have a way of being solemnly repeated, so they acquire the air of wisdom and authority.

Treatment Delayed Recovery—I had my Scotch surgical chief found out that it wasn't the injury itself but the treatment of sprains then prevalent that made a sprain worse than a fracture. The practice was to put the sprained ankle in a plaster cast

MATCH THEIR SACRIFICE FIRST . . . THEN SAY YOU'VE DONE ALL YOU CAN!

Some of us act as though the days of human sacrifice were over . . . some of us blind as bats to the blood and sweat . . . some of us put their lives in the balance . . . some of us squawking over gas rationing when one of our old tires would furnish rubber enough for a raft . . . some of us belly-aching over shortages when we're not living on black bread and thank God we're not living on four-flushing about our contributions, when they couldn't stand examination through an honest microscope. Are you taking War Bonds, for example. Are you buying your full share — not just what you can conveniently afford, but all you can? Let's get this straight! Our very lives are at stake. The least we can do is to put every penny, every dime, every dollar we can into War Bonds—the finest investment we Americans will ever make.

The Army disclosed its next step in the dispute stemming from white workers' opposition to the upgrading of Negro transit employees, would be in cooperation with the Department of Justice.

In Washington, James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, said flatly that persons who obstructed a return to work since the Army took over the Philadelphia Transportation Co. were very likely to be arrested — and sent to work stoppage.

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, War department representative in charge of the company, conferred here for two hours last night with Department of Justice and Federal Bureau of Investigation officials.

His session with the law officers came after James McMenamin, a strikers' committeeman, notified the city's 6,000 transit operators the committee had voted unanimously to continue the "status quo" — no work stoppage.

Back here at noon tomorrow (Saturday) and we will have more news for you," McMenamin told strikers assembled at a car barn.

Officials of the CIO United Transport Workers union, which represents the transit workers, have opposed the strike.

Partial street car and subway service was restored yesterday, but it collapsed last night when relief operators failed to appear for those who had operated vehicles during the day.

"CALAMITY TOWN" by ELLERY QUEEN

©1943 LITTLE BROWN & CO. DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT
Pat was suspended between worlds. She had been sitting beside Ellery on the porch, waiting for Carter Bradford to go home. And now Carter had come out of the house, fumbling with his disreputable hat and fishing for some graceful way to negotiate the few steps of the porch to reach the haven of night shadows on the lawn.

"I don't think there's anything you can have to say that I'd want to hear," said Carter huskily, but he made no further move to leave the porch.

"Ellery—don't," cautioned Pat, taking his hand in the gloom. Ellery declared, "I've got to. This man thinks he's a martyr. You think you're being a heroine in some Byronic tragedy. You're both fools, and that's the truth."

"Good night!" snapped Carter Bradford.

"Wait, Bradford. It's been a difficult time and an especially difficult day. And I shan't be in Wrightsville much longer. I've been here much too long already. Now there's nothing to keep me—nothing at all."

"Spare me your tender farewells," sneered Carter. Then he laughed sheepishly and sat down on the step near them. "Don't pay any attention to me, Queen. I'm in a fog these days."

Pat gaped at him. "Carter—you? Being humble?"

"I've grown up a bit these past few months," mumbled Carter.

"There's been a heap of growing up around here these past few months," said Mr. Queen mildly. "How about you two being sensible and proving it?"

Pat took her hand away. "Please, Ellery—"

"I know I'm meddling, and the lot of the meddler is hard," sighed the author-detect

Recreation-Mullins Game 0-0 Deadlock; Potters Win Second

Two Teams Battle To Tie After Nine Innings; Jim's Taken, 5-0, By Dale Ritchie

Neither Mullins nor the Recreation was willing to relinquish their unblemished fourth round status at Centennial park yesterday, so a nine-inning pitchers' duel was called because of darkness with the score still knotted at 0-0. The China, in the first game, went merrily on its way to another round championship by blanking Jim's, 5-0.

The contest between Mullins and the Recreation was one of the tightest games of the year—both pitchers, Marty and Bill Pauline, hurling excellent games and receiving nearly perfect support from their teammates. Pauline of Mullins allowed just six hits, while Pauline of the Old Timers crew gave up six.

Jim Primm and Bernard Miglarini were the only two of the 20 players able to hang out two hits. Primm had four tries and Miglarini three and both came through with singles, but to no avail.

The tie game puts both teams right back in the same spot in the same spot they held yesterday in league standings. Both now have won a game each and are unbeaten, so a playoff will be necessary in the near future to determine which of the aggregations is going to be in the running with the two-time winning Chinas this round.

The Potters had a relatively easy time at the plate yesterday, smacking out six solid blows and getting five runs in the bargain. Pitcher Ralph Hendricks, Jim's hurler, turned in a good show but not quite the same brand as Dale Ritchie is accustomed to throwing. Ritchie limited the long-clouting Jim's team to three hits and kept the game in his hip pocket all the way.

Since his lone reversal two weeks ago, Ritchie has proven himself right back in the groove and shows little signs of giving up more losses this season.

The Potters, using Byron Mumaw in left field once again, centered their attack in the fifth inning at-

Cuyahoga Lawsons To Play Athletics At Park Sunday

It's been nearly three weeks now since the Salem Athletics have won a game but they will be out to chalk up their seventh win tomorrow, when they entertain the Cuyahoga Falls Lawsons, from the Akron ABC hardball league, at Centennial park at 2:30 p. m.

The Athletics haven't won a contest since defeating East Liverpool's All-Star aggregation three weeks ago, and the Lawsons loom as their best opportunity of the week.

Although the Cuyahoga Falls team boasts 11 wins on road trips against no losses, they are now at the bottom of the pile in the tough league they compete in. Having lost seven games and won only one this round, they are at the bottom of the ABC loop, which the Akron Orphans now control.

Manager Gordon Fish, who plays short, is bringing a young and well-experienced team to Centennial tomorrow. Among his best players are Fred Cundriff, centerfielder, who is leading the ABC league in batting with a sterling .476 average, and Bud Kyser, third sacker, who formerly played with Erie, Pa., in minor league ball.

Catching will be John Sane, pitching, Charles Spriggle and on first will be Jack Wolfe. Don Francis, another good hurler, may see some action here. At second is Jack Ramsey, and in the outfield are, Kusbaki, Cortisi and Cundriff.

Salem may see several new hurlers in action as a few new mound-workers are slated to be around. Walt Smith and Red Allison will do the majority of the work, but some new recruits may get into the game.

Radio Programs

The last two programs in the "Here's to Youth" dramatic radio series sponsored by the Girl Scouts and nine other voluntary youth-serving agencies are scheduled for airings Aug. 5 and Aug. 12.

The first of the remaining two, which are to be broadcast at 1 p. m. over WTAM, will be "A Wartime Job," backing up adult arguments for keeping girls on school to complete their education for war peace. "Faith of Our Fathers" on Aug. 12 will point out today's values of our moral and spiritual heritage.

Esther Williams, shapely swim champ, and Red Skelton are co-starring in "Bathing Beauty," technicolor musical showing at the State Sunday through Tuesday. The excellent supporting cast includes Basil Rathbone. The musical background of the picture is provided by Harry James and his band and Xavier Cugat's orchestra.

"Bathing Beauty" is lavishly produced with an eye to color, beauty, comedy and music. The water pageant scene in the picture is the loveliest of the many brilliant sequences.

A newcomer among screen leading men, Zachary Scott, has the role of the fascinating central character in "The Mask of Dimitrios," movie version of the Eric Ambler mystery novel, which will be seen at the State Wednesday and Thursday.

"Secret Command," featuring Pat O'Brien and Carole Landis, with Chester Morris, Ruth Warrick, Barton MacLane, Wallace Ford and Tom Tully, is the State theater attraction for Friday and Saturday. Playing the role of estranged brothers, Morris and O'Brien uncover a plot to sabotage American ship-building and are united in their efforts to wreck the plot.

The Grand's Sunday and Monday double feature program includes: "Louisiana Hayride" with Judy Canova, Ross Hunter and Richard Lane; and "Goodnight Sweetheart," featuring Robert Livingston, and Ruth Terry.

On Tuesday and Wednesday the Grand will offer "Stars on Parade," featuring Larry Parks, Lynn Merrick and Ray Walker; an "Leave It to the Irish" with James Dunn, Wanda McKay, Jack LaRue and Vince Barnett.

"Beneath Western Skies," a western with Bob Livingston and Smiley Burnette, and "The Contender," with Larry "Buster" Crabbe, Arline Judge, Donald Mayo and Julie Gibson, are booked for the Grand Friday and Saturday.

The area of Australia equals that of the United States, but the population is no more than that of New York City.

The island of Jamaica has an area of 4,990 square miles.

The struggle for Warsaw continued in undiminished fury.

Amit New Gains
Inside Warsaw Polish underground forces were believed running low on ammunition.

The German communiqué acknowledged that the Russians had made new gains below Warsaw, and said fighting was in progress at Warka, 32 miles south of the capital.

Russian forces crossed the Vistula tributaries, the Nida and the Wislota, gaining strong positions for new attacks from the north-east and the east against Krakow, and were about 75 miles from German Silesia. Marshal Konstantin K. Kossovsky's First White Russian army and Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Ukrainian right flank met in the vicinity of Szezechon on the Vistula for a concerted drive against the southern anchorage of Hitler's defenses of the Reich.

The rail junction of Tarnow, linking four lines 45 miles east of Krakow, was outflanked by the Russians, but military reports indicated the advance, averaging 20 miles a day during the week, would slow down at the outer defenses of Krakow, where Germans were reported determined to make a hedgehog defensive stand.

U-Boat Threatened
These American troops also threatened the U-boat base of St. Nazaire, west of Nantes, from near Derval and Chateaubriant, 38 and 40 miles away.

The American thrust through Brittany—opposed so far only by ineffectual isolated German garrison forces—brought invading troops for the first time into territory of strong Maquis resistance, where front line cooperation with French forces of the interior is possible.

In the department (Province) of Morbihan bordering the Bay of Biscay in southern Brittany, French patriots for months have been battling German communications and skirmishing with the Nazis. In these battles some 1,400 Germans have been reported killed against a loss of 200 members of the Maquis.

South of the area of the British triumph in the Bocage country the Germans still had a salient several miles wide and several miles long jutting up into Allied territory between the contested city of Vannes and the Orne river, but this salient was rapidly battered in by several parallel Allied spearheads advancing east from the Avranches area.

The Americans were driving east from Brittany as well as up the peninsula. They captured and passed Fougères, 30 miles northeast of Rennes, and farther northeast struck to within little more than a mile of Barentan, 24 miles east of Avranches.

Lamb Crop Smallest

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The agriculture department reported today this year's lamb crop totaled $29,603,000 head—the smallest crop since 1930 with the exception of 1935 and 1937, in which years droughts curtailed livestock operations.

The 1944 crop also was 53 per cent smaller than last year's crop and 3 per cent smaller than the 1933-42 average.

INSULATED— BUT HOW?

Remember—there is no magic in the word "Insulation"

Before you insulate your home, be sure of an adequate insulation job by asking yourself these 6 questions:

1.—How Thick is the Insulation?

Thin insulation is only partially effective . . . insist on a Full Thick Johns-Manville "Blown" Rock Wool job. All Home Insulation Co.'s Blown Rock Wool jobs conform to the U. S. Government standards for optimum operating efficiency of mineral wool.

2.—How Efficient Is It?

J-M Blown Rock Wool has a heat resistance per inch of thickness equal to or better than any home insulating material on the market.

3.—Is It Fireproof and Permanent?

J. M. "Blown" Rock Wool is a pure mineral wool made from rock . . . won't burn, rot or decay. Demand a fireproof insulation; don't be misled by claims of "fire-resistant", etc.

4.—Can the Complete Home Be Satisfactorily Insulated?

Hundreds of home owners in the Salem area alone can testify to the complete and satisfactory insulation of their SIDE WALLS, as well as ceiling-areas. The George Washington Shrine at Mount Vernon was insulated with mineral wool on the recommendation of the U. S. Government National Bureau of Standards.

5.—What Type of Insulation is Preferable?

The United States Government Department of the Interior states, "Generally, mineral materials are preferable because of their resistance to fire, electrical short circuits, moisture, termites, vermin and decay."—U. S. Bureau of Mines, Circular 7166.)

6.—How Reliable Is the Company Behind the Product?

Johns-Manville pioneered the blown rock wool industry, and for 25 years has been the insulation industry's leader. The Home Insulation Co. of Youngstown, has an exclusive contract with Johns-Manville for installation of their Type A "Blown" Rock Wool in this area.
